SAS announces that Charlotte Svensson, Executive Vice President and Chief Information Officer, has decided to leave the company.

“Charlotte has been the driver of new investments in Artificial Intelligence and automation and together with her team, she developed the new award-winning SAS app. I would like to thank Charlotte for our close cooperation and her dedication to the company,” says Anko van der Werff, SAS President & CEO.

Charlotte Svensson will leave SAS in March 2024. The recruitment process for her successor has started to ensure a smooth transition.
