ORTEC announced the release of ORTEC Routing and Dispatch 12, a new version of the company's successful and dynamic vehicle routing and transport optimization solution.

This release comes with a variety of new features, to help companies lower transport costs and CO2 emissions through improved decision support and collaboration. And a refreshed user interface design.

Used by companies like PepsiCo, Ahold-Delhaize and PostNL, ORTEC Routing and Dispatch is well-known among industry leaders looking to gain control over today's complex logistics operations.

"This is a carefully considered release with features developed based on direct customer feedback and ORTEC's decades-long experience in operations research," said Theodoor Torn, Product Manager. "Our Routing and Dispatch solution has proven to help companies reduce their mileage between 5 and 15%, lowering costs and emissions."

ORTEC Routing and Dispatch 12 is a worry-free SaaS offering that helps logistics teams lower transport costs and drive times and improve vehicle utilization. Besides offering a new look and feel, new features introduced in this release include:

- (1) A new master routes scenario planning module, integrated with ORTEC Routing and Dispatch, which helps planners prepare for upcoming trends in last-mile operations.
- (2) Order consolidation for warehouse operations, ideal for customers who use warehouse orders to organize transportation for store delivery.
- (3) New apps for performance analysis in Data Driven Logistics, helping organizations improve planning using analytics and machine learning.
- (4) Cloud maps for SaaS customers
- (5) New features within the improved Carrier Portal

ORTEC Routing and Dispatch 12 will be available starting 30th of December 2022.
